MORNING MEETING & AFTERNOON REFLECTION

Sitar students gather each morning before attending classes. Morning meetings are an opportunity for students to prepare for their day through short exercises, giving shout-outs and receiving announcements. All students should be present for the morning meeting. Shout-outs are given to students who are exhibiting student values. Students and teachers can give and receive shout-outs. In the afternoon, all students will work on a writing journal to reflect on their day, the lessons learned, the challenges encountered, and the successes.

In addition to the daily meetings, all students will attend a morning meeting at the beginning of each session. In this meeting we will review the session's activities and events, our student handbook and answer any questions that our campers may have.
